ICE FOR SALE

—BY—
TRACY & SON.

FOR JUDGE COURT OF APPEALS.
We are authorized to announce

JUDGE B. L. DUFFY.
Of Butler county, as a candidate for the office of Judge of the Court of Appeals from the Second Appellate District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Republican party.

Democratic Ticket.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE.
We are authorized to announce

E. T. WILLIAMS.
As the Democratic nominee for County Judge of Ohio county, Election, November 6, 1894.

Lost—"In the most august body on earth" a much beloved bill. A liberal reward will be paid for its return in good condition to Congress man Wilson and the Democratic party.

The Grayson Republicans held their County Convention at Leitch field last Monday, and among other good and commendable things instructed for Judge B. L. Duff, of Morgantown, for Judge of the Court of Appeals.

PROF. H. K. TAYLOR, of Louisville, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction, spent several days this week in our city looking after his political fences. He made a very favorable impression.

The Commencement Exercises of Frankfort High School will occur Thursday, June 1, 1894, at the Frankfort Opera House, Annual Address, ex-Chief Justice W. H. Holt; Diplomas delivered by ex-Attorney General P. W. Hardin.

If Breckenridge means to be consistent, of which no one accuses him, when he claims that the people of the Seventh District alone have a right to speak of his canvass, then he should squelch his noisy little abettors in this part of the State.

CAPT. ED DAULEY, who has undertaken the navigation of Rough River, is a man of determination, and if the matter can be made a reality he will do it. The "Stonewall," a considerable boat with freight from Evansville reached Ross's Ripple last Saturday, but on Sunday had to turn back owing to the fact the boat was too large. But the Captain will at once obtain a lighter boat, and while in Hartford Monday expressed the determination to have it here in a short time.

The Democrats of Muhlenberg county, by their county committee which met in Greenville Saturday, nominated the following county ticket: County Judge, Joseph L. Gish; County Attorney, Will J. Cox; County Clerk, A. C. Moorman; Sheriff, J. Wallace; Assessor, Burrell Stewart; Jailor, W. C. Smith; Surveyor, Geo. D. Kittinger; Coroner, B. G. Myers; Funding Board, W. P. Robertson, Robert Glenn, S. O. Sears, Elsie Jones, Robert Dennis, Joe Lovell, J. J. Whitmer.

The Democratic Congressional Primary Election is called for August 4. The object in putting it off so long is doubtless in the hope that something will happen by that time to raise the flagging hopes of the boys in the trenches, for the politicians know that if the Primary should come off now there would scarcely be a corporal's guard take part. The Primary is altogether superfluous, however, inasmuch as the next Representative from this District will be nominated at Lebanon June 27, and his name is John W. Lewis.

The most important recent event in the history of Hartford from a business standpoint is the organization of the Hartford Commercial Club. Such an organization should long ago have been organized and in operation. Properly managed this body will be worth hundreds and thousands of dollars to the town. The proposition to macadamize the streets of the town is an exceedingly good one. Now, that the courts are insisting on enforcing the law in requiring imprudent and fines in default to be paid in work, the rock pile brigade can be utilized to a good advantage. But this is only one of many things to which the club may give its attention.

DECORATION DAY.

Preston Morton Post G. A. R. Holds a Very Impressive Memorial Service.

The Graves of Heroes Strewn With Flowers—Some Good Speeches.

Under the auspices of Preston Morton Post G. A. R., a most successful Decoration Day Service was held at Shinkle Chapel Church, seven miles north of Hartford on Wednesday.

A large crowd, perhaps five hundred or six hundred people gathered early on the beautiful church grounds to witness the exercises. At 10 o'clock Rev. J. A. Bennett called the meeting to order and led in prayer, after which Rev. J. B. Perryman delivered the Welcome Address to the delight of his hearers. Prof. James Ellis and choir delivered some very fine music prepared for the occasion.

The next part of the regular program was the funeral sermon of Mrs. Elizabeth Carter by Rev. J. A. Bennett, which was delivered to the afternoon and Rev. D. F. Kerr delivered the oration of the day. He is a pleasing and powerful speaker. His thoughts seemed to flow with the utmost ease and rapidly and his pictures of the Nation's history and struggles was able and pleasing. The large audience join in congratulating the management on securing such an able speaker.

The Hickory Hill Cornet Band had been engaged to render the martial music for the occasion and they did their part to the satisfaction of all.

After the orations the old soldiers and a large part of the crowd repaired to the graveyard about a mile away and there the Decoration Service was performed with great solemnity and effect.

Some fine music both vocal and instrumental was rendered by the band and the choir and the old soldiers headed by Color Sergeant Thomas Greer and Acting Commander J. L. Carson marched slowly around the graves of the departed heroes and deposited there the beautiful flowers in token of the esteem and honor in which the memories of the departed are held by the living. It was a scene sadly beautiful. Time is fast thinning the ranks of the living and adding to the ranks of the dead and before another Decoration Day no doubt some who Wednesday scattered flowers will be asleep and over their graves the remaining comrades will perform the beautiful ceremony and shed a patriot's tear.

The music at the graves was highly complimented, after the exercises the crowd was dismissed and dinner announced ready at the church. A bountiful repast was spread and there was plenty and to spare. No crowd was ever better fed nor ever enjoyed a dinner more.

When the dinner hour was over the band dispensed some sweet music and the Post held a short business meeting in the church. At 2:30 o'clock Rev. J. A. Bennett preached the funeral sermon of Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, a woman of more than ordinary ability, who was a nurse and spy during the late Civil War in the command of Gen. Grant. She died at the Alms-house here several months ago, and the funeral was deferred until this time. Rev. Bennett preached a very touching sermon, telling of the many hardships through which the unfortunate heroine had passed.

Acting Commander Carson called on the committees for reports and after some other business was transacted the crowd was dismissed. On call it was found that before coming to Shinkle Chapel that morning the old soldiers had decorated the graves of no less than ninety-six comrades in the various burying grounds throughout the county.

The crowd then dispersed after "Home, Sweet Home," by the Band, leaving pleasant memories of a most joyous day.

NOTES.

The Committee on Arrangements composed of Messrs. Henry C. Shaver, Jesse Shaver, Victor M. Stewart and the neighbors generally deserve the highest praise for their excellent work. Nothing was left undone that would add to the interest and pleasure of the occasion.

Quite a number of the boys who wore the gray were present and enjoyed the day to the fullest extent. They expressed themselves as delighted with the affair throughout.

The Hartford Colored Cornet Band was out in full force and made some good music.

Free Trade and Farming.

[AMERICAN ECONOMIST.]

A paragraph appeared in the London daily press a few months ago stating that the farmers had given their laborers notice that henceforth their wages would be reduced by 2 shillings (50 cents) per week. The normal rate of pay for farm hands—able bodied men—in England is from $2.75 to $3, and the notice of the contemplated reduction of wages was accompanied by the statement that "great distress was apprehended in the rural districts during the winter months."

From some parts of England—notably the counties of Essex, Suffolk and Norfolk—we hear accounts of farm houses and fences falling to decay; of fertile fields that are now a prey to the thistle and the dock. The report of the Royal Commission on labor refers in significant terms to the terrible condition into which the agriculture of England has fallen, and points as a sample in many cases, to one instance of a farm which produced to the landlord ten years ago a rental at $4,100 net, and which will now only let for $500 a year. This was in the county of Norfolk.

Mr. C. S. Reed, an authority on such subjects, read a paper on this question at the Statistical Society last year, and he said that the country people who were formerly well-to-do were now compelled to let their residences and "sporting" privileges to Londoners; that they themselves were forced to reside in one of the small farmhouses on the estate, while their children are educated as cheaply as possible on the Continent. Mr. Reed assured his audience that a very similar state of things prevailed in adjoining counties.

At the last National conference of agriculturists held in 1892 in England, it was decided that the main cause of the depression was due to unfair foreign competition, and that nothing but discriminating duties levied against foreign competing products would prevent the ultimate ruin of agriculture in the United Kingdom. British land, together with its cultivators, is getting gradually impoverished, and its returns are lessening for the simple reason that it does not pay to cultivate highly at the present prices of agricultural products.

We have no greater authority on this subject than the late Sir James Caird, who stated in 1889 that landlords had lost $150,000,000 of their income from land; tenant farmers more than half of their income, and laborers $12,500,000 of their spendable income, estimated together at $215,000,000 annually. It was further added that between June, 1890, and June, 1892, farmers lost $365,000,000 of their capital.

There are quite 34,000,000 acres under cultivation in the United Kingdom, and if we assume that fifteen years ago this land was worth $250 per acre and that it is now only worth $150, the total national loss amounts to $2,400,000,000. This is a permanent loss, affecting the real securities of the country.

These facts are gradually sinking into the public mind. Even Mr. Gladstone is not oblivious to the gigantic evil. Speaking in 1893 at the Cobden Club, that statesman had to acknowledge that "protection has gained ground" of late years. It was very significant of the progress of public opinion that one of the speakers, Mr. H. H. Scott, at a late meeting of the British Association, strongly advocated an important duty on foreign barley, while Dr. Freeman the celebrated agricultural expert, also advocated a duty of 25 cents per quarter on imported wheat.

A Call For Judge Guffy.

[GREEN RIVER REPUBLICAN.]

The time is not far distant when the Republicans of this Appellate district will be called upon to nominate a candidate for the high and important office of Appellate Judge. Judge B. L. Duff, of this county, has been favorably spoken of as a suitable person to nominate. We are confident that he is the strongest man we can nominate. He is well qualified in every respect. We believe that his nomination would greatly strengthen the Republican party in the district. We believe that he can be elected.

Gov. Brown received 2,934 plurality in the district in 1891.

Cleveland received 3,715 plurality in 1892, 7,450 votes were cast for Judge Guffy in 1891 in the contest for the important office of Attorney General. Weaver received, in 1892, 7,074 votes in the district, more than 1,600 of which were cast in Daviess county, although Daviess county, in 1891, cast only 185 votes for the People's party ticket.

It is reasonable to suppose that nearly all the 7,450 votes cast for Judge Guffy in 1891 would vote for him for Appellate Judge, which the Republican gains confidently expected, would give him a good majority.

We sincerely believe that the best interests of the Republican party demand the nomination of Judge Guffy. We believe that his nomination will make sure the election of the Republican ticket in many close and doubtful counties in the district and by the largely increased Republican vote sure to result therefrom, will still further increase the prospects for Republican victory next year.

It is not what its proprietors say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story of its merit. Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

June Hacks Forecasts for June.

June brings us to the opposite side of the sun from our January starting place, bringing a gradual transition from winter to summer phenomena. The storm periods keep up their unvarying regularity, but change in character as our globe's sphere reaches successive points in its annual excursion around the sun. The kinds of storm and temperature we had in our winter have not passed from our globe, but have simply slipped to the other end of it, with a pace answering to that of our progress around our orbit. The same conditions will gradually steal back upon us as we move back to the starting points. These facts show us that our show us that our storms and weather depend in character as well as for existence upon astronomical causes and relations. Why not possess and use such knowledge?

About the 2d a warm wave will begin in western sections, with all changes of barometer and temperature and wind currents to the eastward necessary to its growth and progress; hence during the 3d to 6th a warm wave with active storms will be felt along the country from west to east. Cooler, fair weather will fall in to the west of storms, hourly passing eastward on their rear flanks, until the trifling phenomena pass over the continent. On and about the 9th and 10th very warm weather will grow into a crisis and active storms of lightning thunder and rain will result. About the 11th is the electrical crisis of the summer solstice, and many startling displays of lightning are a physical necessity. Thunder showers need not surprise at any time until after the 26th, and a constant and prolonged tendency of wind currents to blow from easterly directions will drive many low hanging cloud detachments backward in westward swirls, suddenly and unexpectedly drenching unsuspecting people. All through the solstice period cloud formation float indefinitely and desultorily, showing that atmospheric movements are confused.

From the 14th to 19th we have a regular storm period, covered from beginning to end by a Mercury equinox central on the 16th and aggravated by the moon in opposition on the 18th. During this period look for very warm weather, with many violent displays of lightning, with heavy local rain and wind storms. If wind currents, temperature and barometer do not change after storms, expect them to return about the same time on following days and nights until conditions change, or past the reactionary storms of rain, hail and lightning which are centrally due on the 20th and 21st. Much cooler weather ought to come in about the 21st to the whole country. The 25th to 30th is a marked storm period, fully within the power of the Venus equinox, which will be at its center July 11th. The temperature will reach oppressive warmth, culminate in dangerous storms about 26th, 27th and 28th, with sudden reversals to much cooler. Heavy hail will result. June ends fair.

HABIT.

May 29.—Habit, or as it is better known as Bethabara, is situated 8 miles south-east of Owensboro, on the Miller's Mill road. It has fifty-seven inhabitants, among them are a doctor, merchant, blacksmith, preacher, six school teachers, several loafers, and the rest are paupers. We have the handsomest country church in the county. We also have a good schoolhouse, with all of the modern improvements; with a large hall for entertainments, and it really furnished. During the spring term of our school, which was taught by Prof. M. T. Henderson, we had twenty boarding students. What little town can beat it? If there is one we should be glad to hear from it.

Sunday School is progressing nicely with T. C. Floyd as Superintendent.

Miss Mattie O'Flynn, our music teacher, will give her last lesson this week.

Miss Mamie Haynes, Whitesville, is visiting Miss Fannie Arnold this week.

Misses Altha and Laura Jenkins went to Greenville Friday and returned Sunday.

The social given to the young people Saturday night was quite a success.

Quite a number of our young people attended church at Macedonia and Sugar Grove Sunday.

Rev. B. F. Jenkins and wife left for Henry county this morning. They will attend the General Association at Carlisle.

H. C. Walrich, Horse Branch, was the guest of Prof. M. T. Henderson Sunday.

Will Camp, baggage master on the Fall's of Rough, was the guest of his father, Mr. George Camp, Sunday.

Miss Nannie Barahill is in Owensboro this week.

Madam Rumor reports that we shall have a wedding soon.

Mrs. M. T. Henderson is visiting her mother, Mrs. Phillips, of Grayson county this week.

Mrs. Claude Vager, Masonville, was in town to-day.

Born to the wife of J. S. Coots on the 27th inst., a fine girl.

FAIRY FAY.

Alexander Union Sunday School.

May 27, 1894—Services conducted by Superintendent Foster.

Opening song—"My heavenly home."

The Superintendent then read a portion of the 3d Chapter of Exodus, after song and prayer the classes took their places.

Title of the lesson—"Moses sent as a deliverer," Exodus 3:10-20.

Golden text—"Fear thou not, for I am with thee."

The classes discussed their lesson with great interest.

Miss Bertha Riley and Mr. Ernest Ellis were elected as delegates to the Sunday School Union that convenes at Rockport, Ky., July 8th & 9th.

Miss Lula Tanner, of the Victory neighborhood; Miss Mattie Chinn and Mr. Fleetwood Ward, Beda; Miss Inez King, Messrs. Virrie Sanderfur, and Berry Rial, of No Creek, and Mr. Sam Lake, of Hartford, were welcome visitors.

We will not meet on Sunday June 2, until 5 o'clock p. m., on account of the dedication at Washington.

Closing song—"When the sun flows flee away."

A Fair Report.

[HARTFORD HERALD.]

Last week The Herald gave an account of a rape near Warren's Mill in Butler county, which we are gratified to learn from Mr. Pate Baize, the accused, and Mr. Fred Young, the husband of the lady, that it is entirely false. Our informant told us as we wrote it and we thought no more of the matter until Saturday, when the above gentlemen came to our office and informed us that there was no foundation earthly for the report. They are now and have always been on the best of terms, Mr. Young is raising a crop with Mr. Baize this season and they were in the field at work together Friday when the attempt was said to have been made, and on Sunday following Mr. and Mrs. Young were at the home of Mr. Young's father spending the day, two and a-half miles away.

The Herald received its information from Esq. G. W. Martin, a member of the Fiscal Court from the Cromwell precinct, who is a reliable gentleman, and who is said to have obtained the information from some men who are making ties near Cromwell. How the report first started, we are at a loss to know, but it gives us very great pleasure to know that there is no truth in it and to put these gentlemen and their families right before the world.

Don't forget the great Masonic Barbecue to be held at the Fair Grounds, June 23, 1894. Hon. L. P. Little, of Owensboro, will deliver a Masonic lecture at 11 o'clock a. m.; also Capt. S. E. Hill and Hon. T. S. Pettit are expected to be present and entertain the audience in the afternoon. Every Masonic Lodge in the county is invited to attend and join in the procession, which is expected to be the largest that ever occurred in Hartford. There will be a fine barbecue dinner and other refreshments to suit the occasion. The proceeds will go to repair the Masonic Hall.

Children's Day at No Creek.

The 2d Sunday in this month is set apart by the M. E. Church as "Children's Day," and as is customary it will be observed at Wesley's Chapel, No Creek, in a fitting manner. The neighboring Sunday Schools have been invited and have accepted the invitation to attend. The regular program will be in charge of the Wesley Chapel school, but other schools are welcome and are expected to add to the exercises any suitable selection, either musical or literary, they may wish. A basket dinner will be spread and no pains will be spared to make an enjoyable and profitable day for the little ones. Short talks will be made by Revs. E. E. Pate, J. A. Bennett, and Superintendents, William Parks, E. C. Baird, Ashford W. Mills, Jo. Foster, Dr. W. H. Bean, Henry Park and O. M. Felix.

'CLEVER SWINDLER.

Two Worthless Lumps Shoved Off for Twelve Thousand Dollars.

A Michigan Woman Completely "Taken In" by a "Representative" of Her Nephew in the West—Mount of an Expected Pleasure.

With eyes brimful of happy anticipation, an aged woman presented two "kings" of bright metal to the chief weigher at the mint. She believed that the two lumps of metal were gold worth thirty thousand dollars, and when informed that they were but copper and zinc, turned away with a heavy heart and sought the train to bear her back to her home in Jackson, Mich. She had paid twelve thousand dollars for the stuff, and had journeyed all the way east to realize upon it.

The story of the unfortunate woman's loss was told to the mint officials. She was Mrs. Harriet Morgan, who resides in Jackson, and with her were her son-in-law, Charles Holloy, and Dr. Blanchard, the family physician. Some thirteen years ago Mrs. Morgan, who is quite wealthy, had advanced to a nephew six thousand dollars to start a business. He was profuse in his expressions of gratitude, and promised that, as business prospered with him, he would return the loan with ample interest.

The nephew went away, and his aunt heard nothing of him until recently. She had about abandoned hope of securing the return of her loan, when one day a stranger came to her with the announcement that he represented her nephew. The latter had prospered well in gold mining, and, as an evidence of his success, had sent her two gold bricks, or "kings." These weighed fully eighty-five pounds and were worth thirty thousand dollars. These the nephew desired to present to his aunt in return for her loan and another small payment. Mrs. Morgan, delighted, paid the stranger six thousand dollars and received the "kings," which she guarded carefully. The trip to the mint was planned, Dr. Blanchard and Mr. Holloy accompanying her to carry and properly guard the precious lumps. The trio reached the city on a Sunday, and waited with feverish impatience for the coming of the morning, when the mint doors should open. Business for the day had scarce begun when they walked into the money-making establishment with happy faces. The metal was in conical form, and throughout all the journey the two men had guarded the satchels containing the "kings" with watchful care and anxiety, never permitting them out of their sight for a moment. The "kings" were passed over to the chief weigher, and the trio sat waiting the result of his examination. In a few moments he announced, in crushing tones:

"This is nothing but copper, mixed with zinc."

Mrs. Morgan eyed the weigher skeptically, and turned to her companions with pale face and dimming eyes. A painful silence of several seconds followed, and the aged woman wailed:

"Is it possible that I have lost all that money?"

The men briefly told the story of the swindle, and the trio departed to catch the western express for their Michigan homes. They had planned to go on to New York after spending several days here, but they quickly abandoned the idea.—Philadelphia Record.

BEAVER DAM SCHOOL.

Second Annual Commencement of Beaver Dam High School.

The Commencement Exercises of the Beaver Dam High School began last night. The work of this prosperous young institution has been very gratifying and our neighboring city may well be proud of its school and teachers.

A large crowd was in attendance and the work of both teachers and pupils was all that could be desired.

A member of the Masonic order of this city said that since Sister Mary (V) Ellen Lease has announced that she is a full fledged Mason, he has been asked by several ladies if there is anything in the ceremony of initiation improper for women. He gave the following extract from Smalley's Expose of Masonry, page 891, which will be of interest to all of the feminine gender who are thinking about the matter: "The candidate is stripped, his feet tied beneath the body of the goat, and his hands to his horns. A cockle-burr is then placed beneath the goat's tail and the oriental march begins. Every time the goat goes baa, baa, the right guard and left guard smite the candidate on the rear breast, biff, biff, with bloody trowels."—Russellville Herald.

I Believe in Hood's

Inherited Scrofula Cured

Read the Statement of a Popular Teacher

Mr. Geo. A. Zirkle, Mt. Hope, Tenn.

The statements in the testimonial below are familiar facts to the immediate friends of Mr. Geo. A. Zirkle, school teacher, of Mt. Hope, Tenn., very well known throughout the county, where he was born and has always lived. Read it.

"Dear Sirs:—I believe in Hood's Sarsaparilla. I will tell you why. I have suffered from inherited scrofula from childhood. When 27 years of age, my eyes became strangely affected. I could not read after sunset, and when I would close my eyes, I could not open them; but on whichever side I lay, on that side I could open my eyes. This condition continued about two years, and was succeeded by

It continued a month and was followed immediately by a tumor in the right side of my neck, as large as a small egg. I at once commenced taking physicians' prescriptions and continued till I lost hope. In the mean time the tumor changed its place to the immediate front of my neck, suppurated and was followed by others until I had formed and broken. "Finally, three years ago, another large tumor seated itself on the point of my collar bone and in six months another half way back on the bone. Both of them soon began to discharge and continued to do so till about seven months ago. I tried everything, including prescriptions. I was often so weak that Attorney T. F. Birkhead, of Owensboro, is attending Circuit Court.

To-day is teachers' examination and quite a number of applicants are expected to be in attendance.

The Hartford Cornet Band has furnished fine music for the Commencement Exercises this week.

Mr. and Mrs. McDowell Fair left yesterday morning for a month's visit to friends and relatives at Standford.

Kennedy, the photographer, is having all the business he can possibly attend to. The people are taking the benefit of the opportunity to get good pictures. Those wishing any work done would do well to call before he leaves.

About 75 or 100 miners from McHenry and other points held up an east bound freight at Beaver Dam Monday night. They wanted to go to Deaneville to have the miners there cease work. The conductor sent for Sheriff Stevens who with Marshal Lyons and a posse of eight or ten men and went out to Beaver Dam but the miners had dispersed.

Wednesday while Mr. John C. Chamberlin and family, of No Creek, were attending Decoration Day at Shinkle Chapel some sneak thief entered their house through the window and succeeded in securing a dime taken from a purse, one old copper centime, one plugged nickel, one copper cent, and one two cent copper. The four latter coins the thief secured by breaking open a child's bank. Mr. Chamberlin had taken his money with him that day and thus saved it. There is no clew.

The following named parties together with many others are visiting in Hartford this week and attending Commencement: Misses Ella McBeath, Litchfield; Bessie Morgan, Greenville; Daisy Stevens, Beaver Dam; Lula and Bessie Cox, Heflin; Maggie Duncan, McHenry; Minnie and Abbie Bell, Buford; Ella Rowe Myrtle Howard, Mabel Kimbley and Artie Bennett, Owensboro; Sara Wilson, Kate Jones, Short Creek. Tent Meeting at Beaver Dam.
Revs. D. F. Kerr, G. P. Jeffries, L. Martin and O. M. Felix are holding a meeting in Beaver Dam. The tent is a large one, seating about 1,000 people. Rev. Kerr is an able preacher. He is beyond doubt one of the finest pulpits orators that was ever in the city of Beaver Dam. The Rev. Dr. Jeffries is also a very able man. The meeting is progressing nicely, and a glorious revival is expected and we know it will come because God has said, "as your faith is so be it unto you." The big tent is well filled every night, and we are able to see an earnest expression in the faces of nearly all the hearers as they drink in the happy tidings of the Babe of Bethlehem delivered unto them by these two Doctors of Divinity.

Mr. Prather, the great song Evangelist, will be here Monday to take charge of the singing. Before leaving this town we expect by the help of God to Christianize the greatest part of its people. Next week there will be services in the forenoon, afternoon, and evening of each day. We intend to work while it is so called light, believing that night is coming when no man can work.

MARTIN.

Mr. T. J. Smith has been called to Washington where Congressman Ellis thinks he has secured Mr. Smith a good fat government job.

College Happenings.
Ever since its establishment, fourteen years ago, Hartford College has been recognized as one of the leading educational institutions in this part of the State, and the year just closing has added new laurels to her crown of successes. Though the year has been a pleasant and successful one, like all things of an earthly nature, it must close, but we feel assured that the experiences of the past year have taught us lessons that will prove of inestimable value in after life. The time has seemed short since work began the 26th of last August, but while it has been passing so swiftly we have been storing our minds with valuable truths that will better prepare us to discharge the duties of after life.

We view with regret whatever mistakes we have made, but look with pride on the many victories achieved in the several fields of labor in which we have engaged. Our mistakes will be useful in enabling us to avoid similar ones in the future and our victories but so many guide-posts along the road of future success.

The exercises this week have been very interesting indeed and have been attended by large numbers.

We are glad to have the following former pupils of the school with us this week: H. L. White, V. F. Miller, C. J. Dunn, Wallace Stewart, Kate Jones, Dania Carter, Mattie Lindley, Abbie and Minnie Bell, Eugene Howard, Artie Bennett, Mabel Kimbley.

The examinations, beginning last Friday and continuing through this week, have been very interesting. They have been hard, and thoroughly tested the qualifications of the pupils.

We were very glad indeed to have Prof. H. K. Taylor, of Louisville, with us Tuesday and Wednesday. He conducted General Exercises Wednesday morning, and made one of the best talks to which it has been our pleasure listening.

The little folks entertained a large audience in the College Hall Tuesday afternoon. The little ones did exceedingly well.

On Wednesday afternoon the students of the Intermediate Department displayed tact and ability in their entertainment.

One division of the Rhetoric Class entertained Thursday afternoon. Their speeches were good and each deserves praise. The second division will entertain this afternoon.

Mr. Battle, of Nashville, is the guest of Prof. Foster, and is attending the exercises this week.

We are more than delighted to see so many of our friends from Beaver Dam attending the exercises this week.

Would that we had space to mention the name of each of the visitors that have favored us with their presence this week. We are glad to have them with us and give to all a hearty welcome.

Popular Convention.
The People's Party met in convention Monday at Masonic Hall. J. P. Miller was chosen chairman and Ben Newton secretary. Cicero Crowder was nominated as a candidate for County Court Clerk in place of James St. Clair, who withdrew some weeks ago.

Nat Lindley was nominated for County Surveyor.

The following gentlemen were selected delegates to the Congressional Convention at Elizabethtown July 4th: G. J. Bean, Ferd Pirtle, T. H. Balmain, T. Morton, Ben Newton, A. S. Worsley, Tom Wallace, R. H. Stevens, J. B. Storms and J. P. Miller.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a grand barbecue to be given here July 23 and the convention adjourned.

A GALA WEEK.

Fourteenth Annual Commencement of Hartford College.

A Very Marked Success—Fine Entertainments and Large Crowds.

This has indeed been a gala week for Hartford. The Commencement Week with the College always brings a large crowd to the city, and our streets are thronged with visitors through the whole time. And besides this the exercises are a much appreciated treat to our people whose lovers of that which is beautiful and true. The program has been well rendered and very interesting from the beginning. All former efforts of the teachers and pupils have been excelled in the abundant success of this week.

Besides the regular class examinations during the week the order has been as follows:

MUSICAL.
Monday night the Music Class, in charge of Miss Maggie Nall gave a Recital, which for good selection, management and rendition is scarcely ever excelled.

The medal for the best instrumental solo was awarded to Miss Annie L. Fogle, and for best class advancement to Miss Carrie Werner. The judges were Mrs. Eugene Nall, Owensboro; Miss Ella McBeath, Litchfield, and Miss Mary Lawrence, Louisville. Hon. J. E. Rowe, in a few eloquent remarks, presented the prizes.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.
Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Primary Department, in charge of Miss Katie Coombes, gave an entertainment which delighted the large audience in attendance, and attested again the superior ability of this excellent young teacher.

The medal offered by Miss Coombes for best work in spelling was won by Miss Annie Collins and was presented by Prof. H. K. Taylor of Louisville, in an appropriate little speech.

CLASS IN LITERATURE.
Tuesday night the class in Literature, in charge of Prof. Wm. Foster, delivered orations at Court Hall to the delight of the large audience who went away unable to determine who deserved first honors. The work of both teacher and pupils during the year has been very fine.

The program, which was interspersed with music was as follows: In the Land of Scott, Fannie Rinder. The Progress of Science, R. L. Power. The Zenith of the Evening Star, Mamee Ross. Peace has her Victories, no less Renowned than War, J. Henry Barnes. The wheels of Weary Life at last Stood Still, Annie L. Fogle. The Principal Italian Writers, J. Ham Barnes. He was not of an Age, but for All Time, Silas Griffin.

Misses Maggie Nall, Sallie Cate, Florence Morton, Jessie Smith and Oma Westerfield rendered sweet music both vocal and instrumental.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT.
On Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Intermediates, in charge of Miss Sallie Coleman, gave an entertainment at College Hall before a crowded house. Every part was well rendered and the management splendid.

THE SOCIETIES.
The annual address to the Literary Societies of the College was delivered Wednesday night by the Hon. L. P. Little, of Owensboro.

A large audience gathered to hear the learned jurist well knowing that they would be well paid. They were not deceived.

At 8:15 the members of the O. L. C. Society followed by the R. E. C.'s and the Adelpheans filed into the hall and Mr. T. J. Morton, President of the Adelpheans, in a few appropriate remarks introduced the speaker to the audience. Judge Little had chosen Sir Walter Scott as his theme and his discourse was marked by a cultivated literary taste at every point and the interested listeners gave him a hearty round of applause at the close attesting the high appreciation of the effort. On behalf of the Societies Miss Lucy Davis, President of the R. E. C.'s returned the grateful thanks of the members to Judge Little and expressed in an eloquent manner the kindest wishes for his success.

Mr. Morton then dismissed the audience, and another happy event of the week was numbered with that which was but is not.

RHETORIC—FIRST DIVISION.
Yesterday evening the First Division of the Class in Rhetoric in charge of Dr. Alexander, appeared at College Hall with orations which displayed the excellent training the students have had during the year.

The programme was as follows: Our Pioneers, A. M. Smith. An aim in life, A. L. McDonald. The Trials of Life, R. A. Byers. A boy's start in life, O. G. Williams. Patrick Henry, Ozna Shultz. The influence of great national wealth on morality, T. I. Morton. Sociates, J. C. Miller. Inventions, J. F. Smith. The Triumphs of Perseverance, Miss Bertha Brown. Character, Florence White. The Ideal Man, Hardin Craig.

ORATORICAL CONTEST.
The Oratorical Contest established two years ago seems to have come to be a fixed part of the Commencement Exercises. No other event of the week perhaps creates more genuine interest among the students of the College and the people of the town. A crowded house greeted the young contestants for the honors of eloquence last night at the Court Hall and the scene was enough to inspire every young mind and heart to the highest effort.

The contestants were Miss Lula

Johnson, Harvey Pruden, J. R. McAfee, J. L. Brown. All the orations were fine but the Judges Hons. J. E. Rowe and T. F. Birkhead, Owensboro; and Prof. Stum, of Whitesville, relieved the anxious audience of suspense and when the name of Rev. J. R. McAfee was named for first prize and Miss Lula Johnson for second the applause was almost deafening. Everybody enjoyed the occasion and only regretted that it was impossible for all of the young people to win first place.

RHETORIC CLASS—SECOND DIVISION.
The Second Division of the Rhetoric Class, in charge of Dr. Alexander, will entertain at College Hall this afternoon with the following program: Morality—A Nation's Safeguard, D. Ham Howerton. Men are not what they seem, Miss Susie Bowman. Beauties, Miss Lena Carson. Home is what we make it, Miss Ada Brown. Our Influence, Miss Edna Carson. Grace Darling, Miss Jennie Quisenberry. Moral Sublimity, Miss Bee Brown. Lady Jane Gray, Miss Corinne Cox. The Follies of Fashion, Miss Edna Griffin. Hannah More, Lillie McGee. The Ideal Woman, Miss Bertie Morton.

COMMENCEMENT.
To-night's program will be as follows: Invocation, Rev. J. S. Coleman. Salutatory, "The Glories of Scholarship," Henry H. Montgomery, Meeting Creek, Ky. The Mind's World, Richard Foster, Hartford, Ky. Conferring degrees, Dr. John E. Pendleton. Valedictory, "It is Finished," Miss Ella W. Cox, Hartford, Ky.

The true gospel expounded. Bridget hits her head against the stove and cries out with pain. She applies Dr. Penner's Golden Relief and the pain is gone. Johnny wakes to the night screaming for the pain in stomach the cherries had brought on. A teaspoonful of the Relief is given. Immediately Johnny is dreaming.

The sick mother, just returned from her Southern trip, is no better. The "hacks" flush" is still on her cheek and gloom hangs over the family circle. The Golden Relief is used a month, and a cure results. The explanation is: Golden Relief cures inflammation. No inflammation, no sore from burn, no hurt from char-burn, no consumption. Contains no opiates, narcotics or mineral poisons. Safe and certain. One tablespoonful cures La Grippe—it never deceives nor disappoints. Money refunded if satisfaction not given. Take a bottle home to-day.

ALONE.

[BOSTON TRANSCRIPT.]

Alone when the day is dawning,
Alone when the night dews fall,
Under the veil of the bridal,
Behind the impenetrable barriers
To work out its life of dole,
From its first faint cry till the hour
Is the doom of each mortal soul.

First tender thought of the mother
Who brings us forth in pain,
Asshaken in the eyes of her offspring,
Some clue to its soul to gain,
"O, what is my baby thinking,
With that gaze so intent and wise,"
But never reaches the mystery,
And never a voice replies.

Alone is the child in his soft bed
Over the broken toy,
Alone is the stricken lover,
Mourning a vanished joy,
Alone is the bride at the altar,
Alone the bridegroom stands,
With his hidden life between them,
That—and their plighted hands.

Alone lies the wife, with the canker
Of blighted hope in her heart;
Alone is the husband dreaming,
Of halcyon days and a better start,
And so from the birth to the burial,
From the first to the latest breath,
The soul goes alone till death.

ESCAPING FROM LIBBY PRISON.

Two Instances of Coolness and Bravery by Yankee Prisoners.

[TOLDO BLADE.]

The confederates in command at Libby prison would not permit uniforms to be sent through in boxes to the prisoners, but so long as the boxes were received they would accept citizens' clothes. In this way Lieut. Kupp, of Berks county, Pennsylvania, received a suit of buttoned colored clothes. He was captured at Gettysburg, and after six months confinement his uniform was worn to rags, so that the garments sent from home were most welcome. Being a tall, lank young man, as soon as he put on the clothes he was transformed into a lean, gawky North Carolinian, and was joked by his comrades on his resemblance to a confederate, a fact he was not slow to avail himself. It was not unusual for confederate officers and citizens to visit the prison with the guards. One morning, to the inexplicable amazement of his comrades who saw the act, Kupp fell in behind the guards at roll call, and coolly walked down to the office of the commandant, Major Turner. He permitted the guard of pass out, and when Major Turner, a smooth faced martinet, appeared from his private office and asked: "Well, sir, who the devil are you?" Kupp gave a fictitious name and added:

"I'm from No. 1 Killin'ery."
"D—n you! what do you want here?" demanded Major Turner.
"Wa'al," drawled Kupp, as he thoughtfully stroked his chin. "Bein' in Richmond, I thought I'd come down and see the Yanks."

"D—n your impudence!" roared Turner. "If you want to see the Yanks go to the front! now get out of here as quick as God'll let you, or I'll kick you out."
"No, you won't kick me," said Kupp, drawing himself up, "but if you are so particular about your damned old prison and your cussed Yanks, keep 'em and go to h—l!" And thereupon he walked coolly out.

Most men, on finding themselves thus unexpectedly free would have made what is called a bee line for liberty, but not so with Kupp. Having secured a piece of timber, he walked down before the prison, on the other side of Carey street, and there stood whittling, while he looked up at his astounded comrades. Finally he obeyed their gestures of warning and started off, and succeeded in coming through to "God's land," as we then called the North.

Another curious escape, requiring even more coolness and address, was that of an officer from Connecticut. Before the war he was a merchant tailor, and understood his trade thoroughly. He was in a hospital when one of the officers happened to learn of his skill asked him if he could make a uniform made for a larger man so as to fit him. The Yankee said there would be no difficulty provided he was furnished with the necessary articles and was paid for his work. Confederate money then being plentiful, $150 was advanced and the gray uniform originally made for an officer who had been killed at the front and who had no more use for it, was brought into the prison. The confederate officer was particularly anxious to have it done by a certain day, as there was going to be a ball in the city, and he wished to appear at his best. The tailor assured him that he should not be disappointed. The owner of the clothes came frequently, in order to have them properly fitted, but the tailor saw to it that no one garment was completed before the rest. In the north-east corner of the hospital there was a little apartment boarded off and known as the doctor's office, to which the prison physicians had access at all times. As soon as the tailor had the uniform completed he proceeded to try it on himself and as he was about the size of the man for whom it had altered, it fitted him like a glove. With this uniform on his back and the $150 for fixing it over in his pocket, the Yankee went out of the hospital and advanced boldly upon the guard.

If he had any fear that the guard would challenge him it was at once set at rest, for the soldier, seeing the stars of a Lieutenant-colonel on his coat, brought his musket to an order, and the disguised Yankee passed without difficulty. Like Kupp, his boldness and address were required with success, for he succeeded in coming through to our lines at Williamsburg.

[TOLDO BLADE.]

Our town is on a boom.

Miss Florence Wright visited Fordville Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. G. C. Roberts went to Owensboro Sunday.

Miss Clara Johnson, Owensboro, is visiting relatives here this week.

Mrs. Lamasters and Mr. Louis Griffith are very low at this writing.

Mr. M. S. Thompson who has been opening a store at this place returned to his home in Catiz for a few days.

Mr. J. H. Obenshain is in town with his photographic outfit ready to please the public.

Mr. T. J. Hardin went to Owensboro Sunday.

The party at Mr. Williams was well attended Saturday night and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

Mr. Quint Kelly comes to town every—well, every day.

W. R. Jones, Fordville, was in town Saturday on legal business.

Mr. Nat McCarty, Whitesville, came up Saturday to see his relatives.

Mr. G. W. Kelly moved to his new house near the depot Tuesday.

Mr. Vernon Gillespie, Fordville, attended the party at Mr. Williams' last Saturday night.

In our last article we made a mistake about Mr. Pierson going to Owensboro to purchase a new spring stock of goods. His business was of an entirely different nature.

Mr. Fred Lamasters, Victoria, was in town Sunday to see his mother, who is very sick.

A very serious accident happened just above this place on the C. O. & S. W. railroad Sunday which came very nearly ending the life of Mr. James Webster, of Fordville. He with a number of companions were standing on the rear platform of a passenger train when he lost his balance and fell over backward on a trestle across a slough. The train was running about thirty miles an hour, but his back and shoulders struck first and the momentum was so great that he was thrown nearly ten feet. He was taken to Fordville, where after a thorough examination it was found no bones were broken. At last accounts he was doing fairly well.

Thompson, Pettit & Co. began work on their new shaft last week, and struck a fine quality of block coal two feet thick at eighteen feet below the surface. They will not stop to work this vein, but will continue to go down until they strike the next vein, which is supposed to be about four feet.

Miss Meie Lamasters departed this life at her home at this place May 11, 1894. She had been an invalid for almost four years, and all that medical skill could accomplish was done for her without avail. She leaves a widowed mother and several brothers to mourn her loss. On Sunday, May 13, her remains were laid to rest in the Magoloc Cemetery, near Cloverport.

COUNTRY JAY.

[TOLDO BLADE.]

Our Democratic friends are going to have a very rough time at their various party conventions this year to construct platforms that will not be laughed to scorn by even the intelligent members of their own party. It will not do to indorse the "Wilson bill," for everybody will desire to know which one of the five editions up to date, and possibly more to come yet, is meant by that ambiguous phrase. On the tariff question they dare not indulge in glittering generalities. The split between the Randall Democrats, who favor moderate protection, and the Calhoun Democrats, of whom Wilson is the avowed leader in the House, will appear in the conventions and it will be a gigantic task to make a platform that will fit the ideas of all the voters who call themselves Democrats.

Then there is going to be lots of trouble about Mr. Cleveland in the various State conventions. That gentleman is sensitive to his personality, and will expect "ringing" resolutions indorsing his superhuman wisdom, his superb statesmanship, and giving his administration unqualified support in all it has done, including the Hawaiian fiasco. And the obsequious federal office holders, who sneeze whenever Grover sniffs, will busy themselves to compass this end. They will be in evidence in the conventions, and there will be fun before the administration is endorsed as fully and unequivocally as Cleveland wishes it to be.

Then, there is the financial question. This has developed to a point where a straddle won't go in defining the position of the party. It will no longer do to declare in "favor of both gold and silver as money metals." Everybody with few exceptions, agree to this. But the point is, are you in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, when the market ratio is nearly twice as great? That is the issue the Democrats must meet and there will be a row in most of the conventions before the matter is settled.

There are minor points of difference among Democrats in every state, and they will also be bones of contention in the conventions. No wonder the wise heads of Democracy are shaking their heads and wondering what is going to happen when the bodies get together.

Con. Nelson and His Good Old Virginian Family.

A Loyal Citizen's Sacrifice for the Benefit of His State's Depleted Treasury—His Children's Education Did Not, However, Wait on Affluence.

In 1830 the treasury of Virginia was somewhat impoverished, and many loyal citizens aided the state to their own personal loss. Gen. Thomas Nelson was one of these, and his fortune was thereby so much impaired that his younger children experienced many privations. The author of the "Memories of William Nelson Pendleton, D. D.," says that want of education, however, they were not permitted to endure.

A tutor cousin taught these English and French. Susan, afterward Mrs. Francis Page, became very intimate with some of the refugees from St. Domingo, who fled to Yorktown in 1791. Association with them gave her fluent use of French conversation. Italian she learned from a female friend, and her acquaintance with English literature was cultivated by her brothers in her youth and by her husband later.

She kept up her use of French so constantly that her children and the young servants around her became familiar enough with the sound to obey an order given in French as readily as in English. She also frequently read aloud in good English, say Italian or French book which struck her fancy.

Loss of wealth never lessened the social distinction of the Nelsons, and Mrs. Page used to relate with great sprightliness some of the shifts to which she and her younger sister had been put in order to dress in a manner suitable to their society and her own prestige as the belle of Yorktown.

On one occasion a grand ball was to be given at the "Raleigh tavern," in Williamsburg. Neither of the young ladies had a pair of dancing slippers, and the family purse was empty. Long and anxious consultation failed to suggest any means to supply the deficiency. Affection and contrivance at last proved excellent handmaids to necessity. "Mamma Nurse," the white housekeeper, had a sheep killed. The skin was tanned by "Uncle Cupid," the butler; dyed black by mamma, and made into the coveted slippers by "Uncle Paul," the plantation shoemaker.

Mrs. Commodore Decatur and Miss Dolly Payne—afterward the wife of President Madison—were among Miss Susan Nelson's intimate friends. At a season of unusual festivity Mrs. Decatur complimented her on being always so well dressed—her wardrobe at the time being limited to two white gowns. One of these, freshly washed and ironed, was put on every day, and the toilet completed by either a blue or pink sash—said sashes having been provided by "Jim Possum," the negro fisherman, who devoted two whole days to the catching and selling of fish for the purpose of buying his "young mistis" her ribbons. — Youth's Companion.

What She Said.

Clara—Oh, I am so glad to see you! I have some news.

Maud—What can it be?

Clara (blushing)—Can't you—guess?

Maud (enthusiastically)—Oh, I know. It's a proposal.

Clara—Yes. But you don't know who it's from.

Maud—Let me see. Why, it must be from—

Clara—Charles Haskins.

Maud (hiding her surprise)—Oh yes, of course. What did he say, dear?

Clara—Oh, he was so nice! He began by declaring that he had always thought of me.

Maud—Oh yes. Ever since he met you that time at the seashore.

Clara—Exactly. And then—

Maud—Then—he was sitting in the chair, wasn't he? He moved over to the sofa and took your hand in both of his, and told you how he had gradually learned to love you, and remarked incidentally that he thought that kind of love was the most lasting.

Clara—Why, so he did!

Maud—Then he was silent for a time, and finally said you must excuse him, but he was so overcome by his emotions. Then his arm slipped around your waist, and he said that you were the only girl in all the world he had ever cared for in his whole life, adding that he could not live without you. No, no, that would be impossible. And would you not say just the one little word that would make him, oh, so happy?

Clara—Well, I don't see how you know, but it was something like that.

Maud—And what was your answer?

Clara (beaming)—Why, dear, what would you have said?

Maud—I said No.—Tom Masson, in Harper's Bazar.

Christian Endeavor Work.

Much interest has centered in the Christian Endeavor work in Life Saving Stations, at the International Convention in Montreal, Canada, an advanced movement was made by adding the Light Houses and Light Ships to the work; also including the United Kingdom of Great Britain in the field of operation. Men were chosen to represent England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales on the International Committee, which consists of representatives from every State and Province where life saving stations, light houses and light ships are located. Rev. S. Edward Young, Asbury Park, N. J. is Chairman; Rev. J. Lester Wells, 189 Grand Street, Jersey City, N. J., is Secretary. They delivered addresses at the Montreal Convention, the former speaking of the spiritual wants and the latter of intellectual and physical needs of the crews. The life savers of the world are the bravest men and continually hazard their lives for others, they guard 20,000 miles or more of dangerous coasts and have rescued more than a million people from shipwreck. As the most of them are isolated from home and friends, it is highly fitting that world wide sympathy should be extended to them, also to the men connected with the light houses and light ships, upon whom vessels freighted with precious lives depend for safety. Christian Endeavor Societies, located near stations or light houses are recommended to conduct appropriate services for the crews and also furnish comfort bags, books, magazines, papers, mits, mufflers, wristlets, socks, yarn caps and the like for the comfort of the surfmen. Those who desire further information with reference to this noble movement may address the secretary.

Who Will Pay the Bill?

The receipts of the government for the nine months ending March 30, 1894, show a loss in customs revenue of $53,000,000, being an average of less than $100,000 per month—equal to $500,000 per day. The revenue seems to be reducing itself without the aid of the Wilson bill.

The Great Reform.

The outstanding interest bearing debt of the United States increased during the first year of Cleveland's administration, from March 1, 1893, to March 1, 1894, $50,905,670, being almost $5,000,000 per month.

HOW IT WILL WORK.

Canadian Farmers Will Profit by the Wilson Bill.

The Wilson bill opens our market to the producers of Canada and gives them an equal share in all our trade. They pay no taxes in the United States, they live cheaper, pay lower wages and can usually sell for the same price or even less and make money.

Hitherto they, under the McKinley bill, have made up what they did not pay in taxes on farms and plants in the United States by a protective tariff at the border. We saw that our own farmers, our own workmen and our own manufacturers were given a fair show; that those who built up our towns, increased our schoolhouses and churches built and maintained them—that these were not subjected to ruinous competition; that what they expended in the material development of the country was held for them. We all have to pay taxes and all have to do our share toward helping to maintain law and order. Those who do these things should not be made to suffer for the benefit of this stranger, for him whose capital, plant, farm and industry are in a foreign country and who is not and cannot be a factor of our own national wealth. The Canadian manufacturer, farmer or mechanic had to pay at the border a tax equivalent, so far as could be computed, to the full cost of the privileges our market offered him.

It is very much like a city which builds sidewalks, grades streets, puts in waterworks, fire systems, builds and maintains schools, erects churches and does all those things which make life pleasant and agreeable. Of course these things cost money, and to meet these expenses taxes are levied on land, houses, mercantile establishments, etc.

What would we think of the political economy which would allow peddlers to go from house to house and sell every article of household need and luxury without let, hindrance, tax or license? They would drive over streets paved by the money of their competitors free of any tax. They would return nothing to the municipality which allowed them to ply their avocation. They would not be residents, but carry away to another place the money they received for their goods. They might not even eat a meal or spend the cost of a night's lodging there. Surely this would not be justice. Certainly no town could thrive which did not, in fair measure, protect her own taxpayers. Nor can it be argued that these peddlers should go free of tax or license to prevent robbery or extortion by the local merchants. That, as an argument, is used by Democrats, but when analyzed its absurdity is shown at a glance. Competition never fails to bring down prices—there are merchants enough and more are ever ready to come where purchasers are to be found, so as to make a reasonable price to consumers.

What Protection is Like.

Protection is like a good book; once in your hands you want to hold on to it.

Protection is to workingmen what flowers are to bees; it enables them to store away the fruits of their labor for future emergencies.

Protection is to labor what a solid abutment is to a bridge—a safe and sure foundation on which to rest.

Protection is as necessary to the growth, development and elevation of labor as the sunlight is to the flowers.

Protection is no respecter of persons. It even extends its blessings to Democrats.

Protection is like a king; it confers dignities; it dignifies labor.

Protection is like a mother; it gives nourishment to industries.

Protection is like sun warmth; it cheers and gladdens the hearts of the poor.

Protection is like a valuable jewel; once you have it in your possession you do not like to part with it.

For American Farmers to Think About.

There are few classes of workmen who in many respects are so thoroughly wretched as the English agricultural laborers. They are in many respects so miserably poor that, if they were converted into slaves tomorrow, it would be to the interest of their owners to feed them far better than they are at present. Throughout large agricultural districts not a single agricultural laborer will be found who has saved so much as a week's wages. A life of toiling and incessant industry offers no other prospect than a miserable old age.—Henry Fawcett.
